Children's Exercises, Family Gather ings and Other Social Events of Christmas Week.

Forty went to the Baptist church last week Friday evening to witness or take some part in the exercises by the children of the Sunday school. Songs, recitations, etc., followed by the presentation of gifts from the Christmas tree, then light refreshments, filled out the time to the enjoyment of all.

Family Gathering. The regular Christmas Storrs-Gardiner family gathering was at the Gardiner's Monday, and 34 sat down to dinner. The Christmas tree was relieved of its burden, good cheer prevailed, and those in 'the other house' were not forgotten. They, also, received presents from Mrs. Chadwick and fruit and candy from the Sunday school in Eagleville.

STATE POLICE HELPING NEW LONDON

Handicapped in Doing-What They Stop the Local Police Should Be Able to Keep Checked-J. C. Geary May Be Minority Leader in Lower House of General

(Special to The Bulletin.) New London, Dec. 29 .- The frequency of the activity of the state police in New London is not indicative of any inefficiency on the part of the local police force, and the state and city inefficiency on the part of the local police force, and the state and city officers work in harmony, the one with the other, insofar as local officers can keep within their own jurisdiction which is limited to the city limits, and closely confined at that, as there is no fund available to the police work on the outside. That is where the state polise assistance comes into play and they are ever ready to respond when properly and officially called. The state police made a raid only the present week upon a black-and-tan joint and with some degree of success, enough to break up the combination. In that particular instance the local police might not have succeeded as well, as they would be handicapped as every mother's son of them are awn to the oltside guard, whether in uniform or plain clothes. Whatever the state police does in New London, it is with full knowledge of the prosecuting authorities and with no reflection upon the local police force.

The state police have wokred up cases of illegal liquor sales in New London and then plan the line of at-tack and in a way that could not be accomplished by the local police force. The state chaps have been known to again, after being confined to the house at the home of his father in Eagleville, as the result of an accident when a heavy box fell on his foot.

Were the local po-lice to attempt such a raid, they would have to assemble some place from their regular beats and before they could possibly form the line of attack, the guard would be tipped off that the police were making some unusual move, and the illegal bar would be closed forthwith and the frequenties discussed. couple are starting in housekeeping there. The time of the mid-week prayermeeting of the Baptist church has been changed to Friday evening, beginning next week. The pastor, Mr.
Powell, proposes to give a series of talks at the meetings this winter which will be interesting and instructive. After the meetings there will be a social half-hour. While the state police did some very active work in the raiding line, still the good work that resulted was of short duration, that is where there is room for local police criticism. It would seem that if the state police made out to close the business temporarily the local police ought to be able to make it permanent. But they don't, and the sale of liquor on an illegal basis continues just as it did before the state police interposed. titled under the law, nor is he given fair play statewise. The legislators attack him from every side and make all possible laws to curtail his business and increase the license fee, and encourage competition by legalizing drinking clubs. It might be well for the temperance lobbylsts in the state legislature to devote some of the spare time to bettering the conditions under the existing laws rather than farth-burden the the legitimate liquor dealer.

The free lunch feature has been abolished by law, and it has been suggested that the temperance lobbylsts now tackle the treating custom and also put an end to the Christmas giving of liquor dealers o their patrons, some of the latter being of the Christmas are treatment of the Christmas and the control of the Christmas are treatment of the christmas and the control of the Christmas are treatment of the christmas and the control of the christmas are treatment of the christmas and the christmas are treatment of the christmas and the christmas are treatment of the christmas and the christmas are treatment of the christmas are treatment of the christmas and the christmas are treatment of the christmas given and the christmas given are treatment of the christmas given and given an ing of liquor dealers o their patrons, some of the latter being of the Christmas eve type only. There is more drunkenness on Christmas and the night before than perhaps at any other one time during the year and all on account of the presents of bottles of whiskey given out by liquor dealers. Lobbyist Spooner and his corps of assistants ought to devote the main part of their time at the 1917 session in improving the present conditions in the liquor traffic, r ather than battling againts the liquor dealer who pays the price to do a legitimate business. It would be well for them t odevote at least one session to the correction of errors in the business as it exists, and thereby do some real temperance work.

There is prospect that Attorney John C. Geary, the representative from Waterford, his pative time, will be selected as the minority leader of the house in the legislature of 1917. It is a long, long time since this honor fell to New London county, and with due consider-ation it can be safely said that no democrat that ever represented any democrat that ever represented any part of the country at Hartford, is as well qualified for the place as is Mr. Geary. He is conceded to be a leading lawyer of the county and his true democracy cannot be questioned. He is an expert on parliamentary law, a first-class speaker, and with that forethought that is often lacking in legislators; he knows enough not to speak lators; he knows enough not to speak when he has nothing to say and has not the fault of liking to hear him-self talk. The democrats of the house are fortunate in having such a well qualified member for a leader, and if he is not chosen it can be put down as democratic blunder No. - for the 1917

There are licensed drinking clubs in the city that are nothing more or less than public bars and the police know, or ought to know, just what the rights of these clubs are, and they know that they are not of the kind that the law intended should be licensed. It is cases like these that the local police sand without the aid of the state police.

The licensed liquor dealer who keeps within the laws ought to be protected from illegal competition. That's what he forks over his half a thousand and survey session of which he was a member, but he is known so well, his methods are so plains his talk so long that he is known so well, his methods are so plains his talk so long that he has long since lost influence even on the democratic side.
